

My Wish List for 2011

By Lane Osborne

The wild revelations of Tiger Woods' sex life, the touching win at Augusta for Phil Mickelson, the remaining majors being won by previously non-major winners, the calamities that befell Dustin Johnson in the U.S. Open and the PGA Championship, Lorena Ochoa's decision to retire, Hunter Mahan's unfortunate chili-dipped chip shot at the Ryder Cup, and everything in between all made for a captivating news year in golf. With 2010 coming to a close it provides an opportunity to reflect on, not only those interesting events, but everything else the year had to offer. I can hardly wait to see what the new year will bring, but what follows is just some of my wish list for 2011:

1. Surprise late entrant into the Masters, Jack Nicklaus goes on to win by four shots cheered on by a stunned gallery.
2. A chastity belt and return to form for Tiger Woods.
3. Clearly defined bunkers for Dustin Johnson.
4. A chip-in to win a tournament for Hunter Mahan.
5. Move the tees back another 20 yards at the island green, seventeenth hole at TPC at Sawgrass.
6. Health and happiness for the Mickelson family.
7. First U.S. Open win for Phil Mickelson.
8. A plain pair of khaki pants for John Daly.
9. A hairbrush and mirror for Ian Poulter.
10. A haircut for Rickie Fowler.
11. A new love interest for Elin Nordegren.
12. A stopwatch for Ben Crane.
13. Return of deeper club grooves.
14. For an amateur to win a tour event.
15. For Lorena Ochoa to pull a "Brett Favre" and unretire.
16. Permanently retire the phrase: "YOU DA' MAN!"
17. Paula Creamer to get a thumbs up in thumb rehab.
18. Anger management for Pat Perez.
19. The Heritage at Harbour Town Golf Links to have a permanent place on the tour schedule.
20. A tour event, any event, in Myrtle Beach.
22. No more Hank Haney Projects. How many more horrible celebrity swings can we endure?
23. For FootJoy to bring sign boy, Matt Griesser, back to its advertising campaigns.
24. For a club pro to contend at the PGA Championship.
25. And on a personal note...a longer short game for me.
